

APEX Tenant Spotlight

Brigadier General (Ret.)
John D. Owen, MD

In honor of Veterans Day, we're proud to spotlight Brigadier General (Ret.) John Owen — a dedicated pilot, physician, and valued member of the Apex Aero Center community at Midwest National Air Center. John served 34 years in the U.S. Air Force and Air National Guard, retiring as a Brigadier General. Over the course of his distinguished career, he held several key leadership roles including Flight Surgeon, State Air Surgeon, Missouri Air National Guard Chief of Staff, Director of the Joint Staff, and Air National Guard Assistant to the Air Mobility Command Surgeon General during the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan. Reflecting on his service, John says, "The most rewarding job was doing our part to get the injured soldiers, sailors, and Marines back home to their families alive."

Some of his favorite memories are of flying his family on vacations in their A-36, experiences that combined his love for adventure and time together in the air. These days, John hangars a Cessna 182 at Apex GPH for "low and slow" local flights and co-owns a Bonanza for longer trips. Outside of the cockpit, he continues to serve the aviation and medical communities through multiple roles. After retiring from Liberty Hospital as Vice President of Emergency Services he now practices as an Emergency Physician at Mosaic Life Care and Excelsior Springs Hospital. John also operates Kansas City Aviation Medicine, located within ATD Flight Systems at MKC, where he performs aviation medical exams and consulting to help keep fellow pilots healthy and flight ready.

When asked what he enjoys most about being part of Apex, his answer is simple: "There's a great camaraderie and community here at GPH. I've made lifelong friends here." John shared a favorite photo with his grandson during an airplane orientation, a fitting image of how his love for aviation continues to inspire the next generation. As we celebrate both Veterans Day and National Aviation History Month, Apex Aero Center is honored to recognize Brig. Gen. (Ret.) John Owen for his decades of service, leadership, and his ongoing commitment to aviation and community.

STEM Field Trip Takes Flight at Platteville Municipal Airport

Platteville Municipal Airport recently welcomed a group of students from Platteville High School for a hands-on STEM field trip. The students are currently building model rockets, so they were excited to learn how to read wind direction and velocity using the airport's windsock, tee, and AWOS. After exploring how the airfield operates day to day, the group capped off their visit with airplane and helicopter rides — an unforgettable way to see aviation in action and connect their classroom learning to the real world. A big thank-you to everyone who helped make this special day possible!

Discovery Flights at GOK

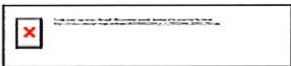

The Guthrie-Edmond Regional Airport recently hosted discovery flights for graduates of this summer's Flight Camp program! These future pilots had the chance to take to the skies and experience the excitement of flight firsthand. Apex Aero Center was proud to support this special event alongside EAA Chapter 1098, helping foster the next generation of aviation enthusiasts.
